A FAITH FOR THE CURIOUS

What if creation was an act of letting go?

Imagine God giving up a separate existence so that everything else could exist.

Not a distant ruler watching from outside, but a sacred presence scattered through matter, life, and the space between us.

You are part of that gift.
So is the person beside you.

Bring your questions.
Bring your strange ideas.
Bring something you made.

WONDER IS A WAY IN.

AN OPEN INVITATION

Begin wherever you are.

No special vocabulary.
No claim to have it all figured out.

Gather around a table. Share a meal, an honest question, and one thing that filled you with wonder. Make room for someone new.

A blessing for the road

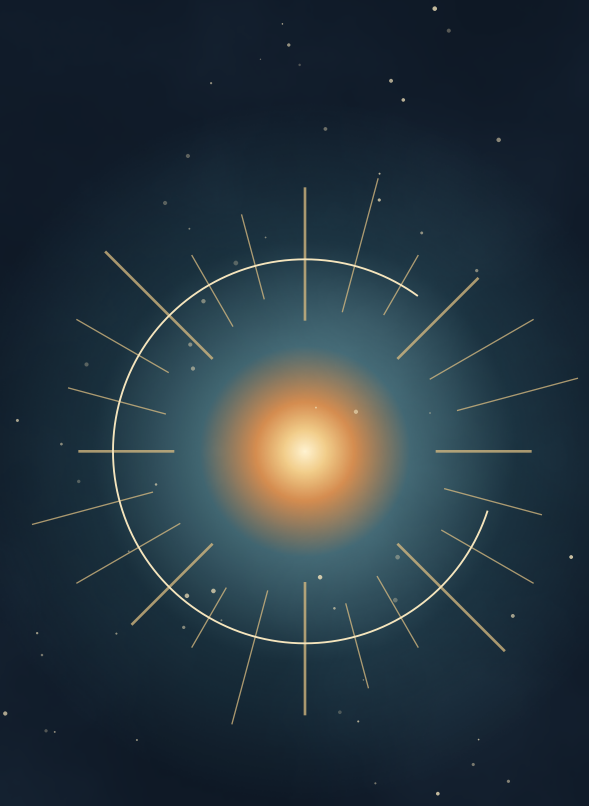

May I notice the gift.
May I add something good.
May what I make leave room for someone else to become.

THE UNFOLDING

A proposed faith, still becoming.
A beginning, not a final answer.

A RELIGION OF THE FIRST GIFT

THE UNFOLDING

God became the universe.
We are what happens next.

WONDER / MAKE / CARE

01 / THE FIRST GIFT

God did not stand apart.

God gave himself away.

Our founding belief is that the Big Bang was God's self-sacrifice: the end of a separate divine self and the beginning of everything.

Space, matter, stars, oceans, and living beings are the unfolding of that gift. The sacred is woven into existence.

We cannot repay creation. We can participate in it.

This is a spiritual interpretation of cosmic origins. It does not claim scientific proof of divine intention.

02 / WHAT FOLLOWS

Live as if it is sacred.

WONDER IS DEVOTION

Ask difficult questions. Follow evidence. Let a better explanation change your mind.

MAKING IS PARTICIPATION

Build, draw, cook, code, repair. Creativity is one way the universe discovers what it can become.

CARE IS THE MEASURE

Treat people and the living world as bearers of the same gift. Let compassion shape what you do.

A sense of humor belongs here.
So does the freedom to disagree.

03 / A DAILY PRACTICE

Make the gift visible.

NOTICE

Pause for one minute. Pay attention to something ordinary until it becomes remarkable.

MAKE

Create or mend one small thing. Let it serve a life beyond your own.

GIVE

Offer time, kindness, or attention freely. The first gift is an invitation, never a debt.

Belonging asks for no sacrifice of your dignity, boundaries, or right to leave.
